THE TRUTH ABOUT DARCY BURNER

Darcy Burner Will Fight to Protect Middle Class Tax Cuts

Darcy will always remember her roots. She was raised in a blue collar military family. When she was a child, her dad left the Air Force and became a public school teacher in a small Nebraska town.

She remembers how her family struggled to make ends meet. When her sister became seriously ill and medical bills mounted, her family went deeply into debt.

Darcy worked her way through college, often holding down three jobs at a time.

It's not often that a person succeeding in business runs for public office. Darcy Burner is such a person, she will bring to Congress the good business practices honed from her years as a manager at Microsoft. She is a mother and a business woman, and she is a strong advocate for tax policies that help the middle class.
