Vern Spatz informs me that they have about 500 voters who appear on their voter registration file with a Post Office Box as their residence address. They have been challenged on this by the Republican party. I asked Vern how they precincted these folks and he said they were precincted based on where their post office box was located.

I explained to him that they really needed a physical address for each voter, and a post office box did not satisfy the requirements of law, and he assures me that they will take steps to obtain that from each of these voters. However, there is a potential problem with the votes cast by these voters at the last election in that the argument could be made that they were never properly registered to vote.
